

From: Ric Mejias
Sent: Friday, 12 April 2019 2:59 PM
Subject: Policy Review Panel

Hi,

May I submit for the Panels review the email trail below regarding companies buying domain names for the sole purpose of profit in my view.

We own a business name and wanted to secure the domain some time ago but Acheeva had stockpiled that with many other domain names for resale in our view. Acheeva even put on the domain a contact us to buy it and it seemed that was the only intention of having www.berrimaaccommodation.com.au

I understood the AUDA policies already prevented blatant stock piling of domains for profit and that the policy intent was to allow businesses like ours appropriate use of domains related to them.

Please see the email trail below as Greg from Acheeva was asked to release the domain berrimaaccommodation.com.au some time ago but would not without fee for resale and he believes the AUDA policy as it stands support his resale intentions. If so then the AUDA policy should be reviewed.

Kindly confirm if the new proposed review and policy would enable a business like ours that owns the business name Berrima Accommodation to also register the domain berrimaaccommodation.com.au and thus prevent companies like Acheeva stock piling for profit.

Kindly review all domains under control of Greg Brown and Acheeva to identify such abuse of the intended policies if I understand them correctly.

Ric Mejias
Berrima Retreat